eAiiSH Manual

INTRODUCTION

E-learning is a term to refer to all the learning-teaching activities using computer and communication technologies. Rapid developments in technology have resulted in the emergence of several e-learning tools and systems. The most revolutionary advancement in the e-learning scenario is the Learning Management System (LMS), a software application used to document, track, and deliver educational courses and programs entirely online.

The LMS has enabled both the learner and educator to move out of the traditional (class) environment. Using an LMS, a teacher can set-up his courses online, create eLearning content needed for the courses, enroll students in the said courses, deliver the content to the students, and, finally, monitor and assess their performance. There are both commercial (eg.Blackboard & Adobe captivate prime) and open-source Learning Management SystemsEg. Moodle & Canvas)

An LMS deployed at an Institutional level is known as the Institutional Learning Management System (ILMS). The AIISH Institutional Learning Management System has been named as e-AiiSH, the homepage of which is given in figure 1. Our ILMS is developed on Moodle, the world's no. 1 open source e-learning management software. The system has three types of accounts: Administrator, Teacher and Student and it is
