The Choice activity allows you to ask a question and set up radio buttons which learners can click to make a selection from a number of possible responses. They can choose one or more option and they can update their selection if you allow them. Choices can be useful as quick poll to stimulate thinking about a topic; to allow the class to vote on a direction for the course, or to gauge progress.

Overview of the Choice activity

The documentation Choice settings provides more detailed information on Choice creation. See the documentation Using Choice for ideas on how to incorporate this activity into your teaching.

Assessment for learning

How confident do you feel that you understand module 2?

- I understood it perfectly
- I feel fairly confident about it
- I am not sure about it
- I don't understand. Please help!

Student view of choice

The image shows a screenshot of a digital choice activity. At the top, the title "Assessment for learning" is displayed in orange. Below it, the question "How confident do you feel that you understand module 2?" is shown in blue. There are four radio button options: "I understood it perfectly", "I feel fairly confident about it", "I am not sure about it", and "I don't understand. Please help!". At the bottom of the choice area is a grey button labeled "Save my choice". The entire choice interface is enclosed in a blue border. Below the screenshot, the text "Student view of choice" is written.

As a teacher you can always see the results, but you can also choose whether or not to allow learners to see each others' choices and whether or not to allow them to see the names or merely the percentage of votes. You can download their responses in a variety of formats. Responses may be 'published', ie made visible once the learner has made a selection, or visible once the choice is closed. Choice options may be restricted so only a certain number may make a particular selection, and you can also opt to display a column showing who have not made their selection.
