

Editorial:

Volume XIII of our Journal is being published in 1982 which is as should be.

However, readers are requested to note that the volumes IX, X and XI are still in the press. Those three issues will contain abstracts of dissertations done at this Institute. We hope they will be out soon.

The 1982 issue is a regular issue and contains articles by our students, our staff and our alumni working in other institutions of advanced learning, both in India and abroad. The issue also has abstracts of dissertations done at our Institute during the past year.

As can be seen stuttering, voice and cerebral dominance for language are still bothering us, as is our attempt at establishing norms and developing tests for our country.

We are also happy to include the long article by Dr. James Monroe Stewart entitled "Primary Communicative Disorders in the Nashville Schools: 1979-80".

We invite papers for our regular issue of 1983.
